The Sower And The Seed

Adapted from Mark 4:3-9

By Carol Montgomery

Narrator 1: Once there was a man who went out to sow some seeds.

Man: (humming or whistling) Today's a great day for planting these seeds!

Narrator 2: As he scattered the seeds some fell along the path.

Seed 1: Yipee! What a great path! This will be a great place to grow!

Narrator 1: But, it wasn't a great place to grow.

Seed 1: (looks around) Hey, what are these shadows? The sun's out, but there's nothing to make a shadow. There's something wrong here. (pause) Oh no, birds!

Narrator 1: And the birds came and gobbled up all the seeds along the path.

Seed 1: Help! (drops head or BTA)

Narrator 2: Some seeds fell on rocky ground where there wasn't much soil.

Seed 2: Hey, look at me! I'm sprouting! Ha, ha! I even have little roots! Aren't they cute? What a great place to grow!

Narrator 1: But it wasn't a great place to grow.

Seed 2: Boy, that sun is hot! Whew! I'm feeling faint. I wish there weren't so many rocks. Then I could get my roots down deeper to the water. (speaks weakly) I sure am thirsty. (pants) Water!

Water!

Narrator 1: Because the sun was so hot and the roots so small, the plant dried up.

Seed 2: (small voice.) Help! (drops head or BTA)

Narrator 2: Some seeds fell among the thorns.

Seed 3: (looks around) Wow! This isn't bad at all. The neighbors look a little strange, but that's okay. I can deal with that. What a great place to grow!

Narrators: But, it wasn't a great place to grow.

Seed 3: (looks around suspiciously) I'm growing, (pause) but these neighbors don't look very friendly. In fact, they look meaner every day. I wonder who they are...

Narrator 1: The seed's neighbors were the thorns. And soon the thorns got so mean they choked the young plant.

Seed 3: Help! (drops head or BTA)

Narrator 2: Still, some of the seeds fell on good soil!

Seed 4: Whoa! Would you look at this place! This is amazing! There's plenty of water, good soil, and not too much sun. (looks around) The neighbors look friendly (looks up) and I don't see any birds. What a great place to grow!

Narrators: And it was a great place to grow.

Narrator 2: So great, in fact, that sometime later...

Seed 4: (stands) Ta-dah! Presenting Super Seed! Ladies and gentlemen, once I was one lonely seed. But now, see for yourself, I've made 30, 60 or ever a hundred more seeds! Just count them. I'm full grown and it's terrific!

Man: (humming or whistling)

I tossed some seeds, oh yeah,

On good rich soil.

Then pulled the weeds, oh yeah,

(seriously) And made sure those little seeds and sprouts got all the water they wanted so they wouldn't faint from dehydration!

Narrators with

Seeds 1, 2, 3: (seeds turn in to face audience) It really was a great place to grow.

(All stand, if seated before.)

All: It was a GREAT place to grow! (bow)
